A Message from the Convention Chair

Greetings, and welcome to Chicagoland: home of the current World Series Champions, the Chicago Cubs!

You might be wondering why we would still be celebrating something that happened months ago, or you might be thinking that there are better themes that we could have chosen when planning for WCPC17 started last fall. If you are, then I say welcome to Chicago, you must be new here! :-)

All kidding aside, basing our theme around the Cubs victory is about much more than a baseball championship; it's about recognizing and celebrating hometown heroes of all types, and about making sure to not let great things around us go forgotten. It can be easy sometimes to focus on the negative things around us, even when they are outnumbered by the positive. It is my hope that if you're reading this however, that you have traveled here to join hundreds of other like-minded people to fill your weekend with more positivity and joy than you will know what to do with.

And so, it is my immense pleasure to welcome you to the second year of Whinny City Pony Con. I believe we have succeeded in improving upon our inaugural year in every way possible: more guests, more events, more musicians, and better perks for sponsors to name a few. Our staff of over 75 people have been and will be working hard to make sure that you have the best time we can possibly provide, because we recognize that it is only because of you and your fellow attendees that we are able to host this event in the first place.

So, enjoy yourself! This book has most of the information you should need to make the best out of your time with us, and you can find even more information on our website, including where to find some Chicago-style Deep Dish Pizza! If you have any questions, please ask any staff member or message us on Facebook or Twitter and we'll get back to you as soon as we can.

Once again thank you for joining us and welcome to Whinny City Pony Con 2017!

Charlie Worthley, Convention Chair
